Message from the Director

Dear Colleagues and Stakeholders,

I am pleased to present you with the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction's 2013 Annual Report. This document showcases a number of different initiatives and agency accomplishments achieved in 2013.

Last year was our first full year of implementing the number of violence reduction efforts, and I am pleased about the progress that has been made. In 2013, overall violence within our prisons was reduced by 7.3 percent. While this reduction is significant, I still believe there is a lot of work yet to do. Violence reduction will continue to be a priority of this agency and I look forward to working with staff to develop strategies to continue to reduce the number of violent incidents in our facilities.

Erasing the lines between prisons and the community remains a key initiative of this agency, and has gradually become a way of doing our business. This approach is important as we work to reduce offender recidivism and crime in Ohio. By eliminating the abrupt changes for an offender transitioning to the community from prison, we are helping to stabilize what has historically been a difficult change. Our success as an agency is defined by the rate an offender returns to prison, and I am pleased that Ohio's 2013 offender recidivism rate is at a record low of 28.7 percent, significantly lower than the national average.

Ohio continues to be the national leader in many areas of corrections and the innovative approaches we are taking to address some of our major operational challenges will only strengthen our role.

I will never be able to properly thank the dedicated employees who work each day in keeping Ohio's prisons and communities safe. The work that they do is important and makes a difference every day.

Thank you for your continued commitment to corrections in Ohio.

Gary C. Mohr,

Regionalization

Erasing the Lines between Prison and Community

The Department of Rehabilitation and Correction (DRC) has traditionally operated under a functional organization structure within state government that clearly separated services provided into two primary categories; prisons and parole services with both categories reporting directly to the agency Director. Functional organizational structure has many advantages including; staff become experts in their field of assignment, increased productivity, clear direction of job requirements and so forth. The functional organizational structure of DRC process has successfully served the agency for many years; however, it has created a separation between levels of management and their subordinates and division between our agency's prison and parole services. DRC is a "people" business organization and one goal of the agency is to blur the existing lines within our functional structure and decentralize the structure thus empowering our leaders, increasing the lines of communications at all levels of supervision, building bridges within prison and parole services and ultimately, continue to live our mission of reducing recidivism among those we touch.

To achieve a realization of truly decentralized management, DRC has embarked upon transitioning the management of our field operations (prisons and parole offices) to a concept of regionalization. Embracing a holistic approach to recidivism reduction, parole and prison services are funneled to one point of supervision. With a clear organizational chart encompassing the total field operations, individuals form a regional team with a common understanding and purpose.

The regionalized organizational format of management, allows for an increased number of staff in the field, creating informational dissemination opportunities utilizing various venues such as regional team meetings, cross training between disciplines and joint regional site visits. Staff develop working knowledge of total system operations. During regional site visits, regional teams focus on staff concerns, support services, technical assistance opportunities and data driven measures to proactively improve field operations. Within a decentralized system, staff is available in the field to see, hear and feel what is taking place within our regions. By listening to staff, community partners and offenders, regional teams are able to utilize gathered information for consideration when reviewing policy, proposing operational changes, establishing staffing patterns and determining our progress and effectiveness.

The establishment of four regions statewide allows regional leadership to focus more deeply on daily operations working closely with field staff on career development. In a regionalized system, career ladders open in both prison and parole operations through exposure to a wider span of pathway development. Regional training opportunities, inclusive of all staff, increase functionality of the region while maximizing the local resources to provide mandated training requirements. Additionally, increased quality of work must also be connected to budget compliance through coordinated travel, use of technology and sharing best practices to achieve budget efficiency.

With increased and open sharing of both written and verbal information regional teams are able to collaboratively assist offenders in returning to their communities. With our ultimate success being measured in offender recidivism, transitioning offenders from prison to community is critical. Regionalization allows joint reentry planning beginning upon the offender's entrance into our prison through their release to the community.

Offender Recidivism

Ohio Offender Recidivism at Record Low

Just one year after Director Mohr officially changed the agency vision and mission to reducing crime in Ohio and reducing offender recidivism, DRC announced its offender recidivism rate is at a record low, with only 28.7 percent of inmates returning to prison after release. Ohio's previous recidivism rate was 31.2 percent, still well below the national average of about 43 percent. If the inmate recidivism rate in Ohio were at the national average, DRC would currently incarcerate just over 3,000 more inmates in state prison facilities.

Recidivism is calculated on a three year time period. The current rate is based on offenders released in 2009 (see Recidivism Report). During that time period, 4.68 percent of offenders returned to prison on a technical violation of supervision, while 23.99 percent returned on a new felony commitment.

DRC has implemented a number of strategies to reduce the number of offenders who return to prison, both as a matter of public safety and fiscal responsibility. Several factors can be attributed to this success, including a reliance on evidenced-based programming, the Ohio Risk Assessment System, and refined reception processes that better identify offender needs. Other contributing factors include a more structured system of sanctions for offenders under supervision, staff training in offender case management and expanded use of a variety of evidence-based supervision practices, greater use of transitional control and community diversion alternatives to incarceration.

Legislative Update
Probation Improvement and Incentive Grants

In response to a Council of State Government’s (CSG) evaluation of Ohio’s criminal justice system, the Ohio legislature passed House Bill 86, a bill that addressed many of the concerns voiced in the CSG report, including increasing the professionalism of local probation departments through standards and training; enhanced data collection; and sentencing reform. In order to offset the impact to local communities, the bill also included probation improvement and incentive grants. Those grants, available to court of common pleas probation departments, are administered by the Bureau of Community Sanctions, which administers Ohio’s other DRC funded community correction programs as well.

DRC brought together the Justice Reinvestment Advisory Committee; a committee consisting of representatives from county commissioners, county sheriffs, common pleas probation departments, halfway houses, community based correctional facilities, Ohio Department of Drug and Alcohol Services, and common pleas judges to develop the probation improvement and incentive grants. As a result, county courts of common pleas submitted Letters of Intent describing: 1) the problem being faced by the county; 2) the proposed solution for the problem; and 3) how solving that problem would result in lower commitments from that county to Ohio prisons.

Funding for the first two years (FY12/FY13) of the grant:

Probation Improvement	$6,500,984
Probation Incentive	$1,817,877
Technology and Training	$1,729,753

Twenty-three separate counties and two multi-county collaborative received probation improvement grants. Since each jurisdiction expressed a somewhat different issue that needed resolution within their systems, the scope of the grants were quite varied, however, all grants included some form of enhancement of the programming services available to offenders to address their criminogenic needs. Specifically, $461,796 of the funding was allocated to mental health programming and $697,504 was allocated to substance abuse programming. All grantees were required to identify specific performance measures as part of their grant agreement. All of the agreements included the measure of reducing the number of people on probation who are incarcerated because the terms of their supervision are revoked, as required by the legislation.

Each probation improvement grant received initial grant funding for the program and was also eligible for probation incentive dollars. The incentive funding will reward grantees that achieve at least 50 percent of their agreed upon performance measures. The performance measures were given a value based upon their impact to the system. The greater the achievement toward the performance measure, the more funding the county will receive, up to the maximum value of the performance measure. Courts may use the incentive funding they earn for whatever community correction purpose they choose. Grantees were evaluated in March of 2013 to determine their achievement level for each performance measure. Those successful in achieving at least 50 percent toward a performance measure received an incentive funding amount. Those who failed to achieve at least 25 percent of their target performance measures received notice that their grant will not be renewed in July 2013.

Technology and Training Grants:

Ten separate counties and one multi-county collaborative received Probation Improvement and Training Grants. The technology grants either focused on enhancing the county's data collection capabilities, creating a probation case management system or augmenting an existing system. The multi-county collaborative is developing a case management system that will be joined to the Ohio Risk Assessment System and supported by DRC. The grants permitted counties to train their entire departments in critical supervision skills. The Technology and Training grants are not eligible for incentive funding and all but two were completed in December 2012. Two of the grants required extensions, one until December 2013 and the multi-county case management system until June 2014.

Probation Improvement and Incentive Results:

In the eighteen successful counties, the programs reduced the number of offenders committed to prison for probation violations by 247 offenders compared to their FY11 rate.

Eighteen of the twenty-five programs performed well and received incentive payments as a result of their performance. The incentive awards were provided to eighteen county common pleas court programs in May 2013. The courts have until June 30, 2015, to expend the incentive award on any community corrections purpose and must provide to DRC a written list of items/services purchased when the funds have been exhausted or by July 30, 2015. These eighteen programs will have their grants automatically renewed for Fiscal Year 2014/2015. To renew the funding, the courts will be required to complete a grant application, budget, and update their performance measures for the next evaluation period.

The remaining seven grant recipients received notice in April 2013 that DRC and the Justice Reinvestment Committee reviewed the programs' performance and determined that the program didn't qualify for any incentive funding and will not automatically qualify for funding in the Fiscal Year 2014-2015 cycle. The programs were encouraged to continue through the end of the funding cycle (June 2013) and were invited to apply and go through the competitive process for funding in Fiscal Years 2014/2015.

Additional information regarding the Probation Improvement and Incentive grants can be obtained by visiting <http://www.drc.ohio.gov/web/ProbationImprovementReport.pdf>.

Future Funding:

The seven programs requesting a grant which did not receive their incentive awards resulted in DRC having almost one million dollars in funding remaining in Fiscal Year 2013. DRC and the Justice Reinvestment Committee decided the most effective and appropriate use of those funds was to provide a portion of these dollars to each of the eighteen successful grant programs for use during the 2014/2015 fiscal years. This will allow DRC to make approximately five million dollars available to fund new Probation Improvement and Incentive grants in 2014/2015 while still funding the eighteen renewal programs. DRC released a request for proposals through a competitive online grant process in July 2013.

Corrections Director Issues First Certificates of Achievement and Employability

July 5, 2012, Director Mohr signed the first three Certificates of Achievement and Employability (CAE) documenting exemplary behavior of offenders who are within one year of release or release consideration. The new CAE certificates were created by House Bill 86, legislation to reform Ohio's sentencing laws, and are designed to help pave the way for the successful reentry of offenders back into society.

In addition to good behavior, offenders who want to earn CAEs must complete vocational programs, cognitive behavioral programs, rehabilitative or achievement programs such as anger management or earning a high school diploma, and perform at least 120 hours of community service. CAEs apply to the field of employment in which the offender received prison-based vocational training and offers employers relief from negligent hiring liability. It levels the playing field for ex-offenders seeking employment by giving prospective job applicants individualized consideration in the job market.

Ex-offenders meeting the specific criteria can also apply for a CAE at any time during a period of post-release supervision by the Ohio Adult Parole Authority.

Green Initiatives DRC Recycling Efforts

The DRC recycling revenue in FY13 increased 3.72 percent to $347,964, up from $335,495 in FY12. All twenty-six DRC facilities participate in a recycling program, with nineteen baling recyclables and generating revenue by the sales of the commodities. The items recycled include plastics, aluminum, cardboard, paper, steel, glass, batteries, tires, oil and clean wood. This initiative has not only saved taxpayers dollars by diverting from the landfill, but it has generated jobs and “green skills” for the offenders. Through training, knowledge is gained of the commodity market and value of recyclable items in order to receive full return on our investments.

Expanded recycling efforts were developed by the Southeastern Correctional Institution (SCI) which partnered with The Ohio State University (OSU) Zero Waste Stadium initiative. Through this partnership, SCI sorts, recycles and composts items from the Ohio Stadium. The partnership allowed OSU to achieve its goal of diverting more than 98 percent of game day materials from the landfill

Each facility has seen additional savings such as, reduction of trash bills from $96,000 per year to $5,000 per year and diversion of food waste to decrease trash hauls with a savings of $3,400 per month. Below is a photo of the recycling operation at the Marion Correctional Institution. This is an impressive operation that diverts 468,000 pounds of recyclables from the landfill per year. These initiatives will continue to grow and, in turn, decrease the DRC environmental footprint.

Organizational Structure

Office of Prisons

The Office of Prisons provides quality services and leadership through interaction with our stakeholders, in the areas of Security, Programs, and Resource Management. Additionally, the Office of Prisons oversees prison operations for all Ohio prisons in the areas of education, classification, critical incident management, recreation, religious services, unit management, security, youthful offender programming, and the management of disruptive inmate groups.

Ohio's prisons are grouped into four regions for administrative purposes: northeast, northwest, southwest and southeast. Four regional directors supervise prison operations in their respective regions and function as the administrative supervisor for the individual wardens.

Office of Offender Reentry

The Office of Offender Reentry is responsible for the oversight of the integration of programs, services, and community relationships all designed to promote successful offender transition back into the community. The core of DRC's approach to offender reentry is the notion that reentry is a philosophy, not a program. Reentry calls for a broad systems approach to managing offenders returning to the community. It is a commitment that starts with the question: What is needed to prepare this offender for successful reentry? The Office of Offender Reentry is also responsible for the activities of the Ohio Central School System. Additionally, the office coordinates the activities of the Ohio Ex-Offender Reentry Coalition.

Office of the Chief Inspector

The Office of the Chief Inspector monitors the application of the inmate grievance procedure in DRC institutions to ensure that inmate concerns and problems are appropriately addressed. Each institution has an Inspector of Institutional Services who is physically located at the institution. This inspector administers the inmate grievance process at the facility and conducts regular inspections to ensure departmental rules and policies are being properly followed. The Office of the Chief Inspector provides assistance to institutional investigators and inspectors as well as conducts internal administrative investigations for the department.

Within the office, the Bureau of Internal Audits and Standards Compliance (BIASC) is responsible for department policy development, monitoring of policy compliance in all agency operations, the administration of the health and safety program for all facilities, and ensuring the overall accreditation of the agency through the American Correctional Association (ACA). The Bureau coordinates policy development that enhances the quality of life throughout the Department. Each facility and parole region within the Department is subject to an annual internal management audit coordinated by BIASC to monitor compliance with identified national, state, and local standards and regulations.

In addition, DRC is one of the few states in the country to have earned the Golden Eagle Award for obtaining ACA accreditation in all of its facilities, including all prisons, the training academy, central office, penal industries, parole services, and the parole board.

Office of Correctional Health Care

This Office of Correctional Health Care consists of the Bureaus of Mental Health Services, Medical Services, and Recovery Services. These bureaus combine to administer all medical and dental care, psychological and psychiatric services, sex offender treatment and drug and alcohol treatment services provided to Ohio inmates.

Office of Legislative Liaison

The Office of Legislative Liaison Office monitors the progress of proposed legislation in the Ohio General Assembly and advises the Director and executive staff on the implications of changes in the law.

Office of Administration

The Office of Administration is responsible for the following administrative support functions:

- The Division of Business Administration provides procurement, accounts payable, revenue, accounts receivable, asset management, and property management services.
- The Bureau of Internal Audits and Accounting Control conduct fiscal audits of field operations and coordinate the Internal Accounting Control Procedures for the Department.
- The Bureau of Construction, Activation, and Maintenance plans and facilitates new construction and renovation projects for the Department and prepares the biennial capital budget.
- Ohio Penal Industries provides industrial training opportunities to Ohio inmates.

- The Bureau of Budget Planning and Analysis prepares and monitors the agency's operating budget, coordinates grants, and provides fiscal research.
- The Office of Enterprise Development creates partnerships and business opportunities with the public and private sector to reduce idleness of inmates through the creation of inmate jobs.
- The Energy Conservation & Sustainability Administrator enhances the ecological and economic sustainability of the Department by integrating environmentally sustainable practices into operations.

Human Resources

The Office of Human Resources is responsible for the recruitment, assessment, hiring, training, fair labor practices, promotions, and retention of corrections professionals. It is composed of the Bureau of Personnel, Bureau of Labor Relations, Equal Employment Opportunity and the Corrections Training Academy. Staff within these various divisions is committed to serving their customers through mutual respect, professionalism, and a standard of excellence.

Legal Services

Legal Services manages in-house legal matters for the Department. Responsibilities of the division include developing litigation strategy with the Office of the Attorney General, assisting administrators and managers in avoiding litigation, supervising the calculations of compound sentences, and assisting with contracts for prison services. The Legal Services Division also guides the development of agency infrastructure, consulting on personnel practices and generally advises the agency on operational issues arising from the state's 30 full-service adult correctional facilities, including the drafting of administrative rules, policy review, legal research, Court of Claims representation, and interaction with the Attorney General's Office regarding other litigation.

Division of Parole and Community Services

The Division of Parole and Community Services consists of three primary areas; The Adult Parole Authority, the Bureau of Community Sanctions, and the Office of Victim Services. Our divisions protect Ohio citizens by ensuring appropriate supervision of adult offenders in community punishments which are effective and hold offenders accountable.

The Division works in conjunction with local criminal justice officials and community and state agencies to provide safe, meaningful community sanctions for the adult offender. These non-state prison sanctions emphasize public safety and include opportunities for offenders to change behaviors or situations which brought them into the criminal justice system.

Examples of non state prison sanctions include, but are not limited to, restitution, day reporting, community service, and halfway house placement. Division staff members promote public safety by effectively dealing with individuals who violate the conditions of community placement. All non-prison sanctions are developed and operated in accordance with legal mandates and applicable standards.

Office of Communications

The Office of Communications informs the public, media and other stakeholders concerning DRC operations, accomplishments, and critical incidents. In an effort to facilitate positive relations with the public, media and others, public information staff works diligently to answer all inquiries in an accurate and timely manner, providing there are no risks to security or breaches of confidentiality.

The Office of Communications educates the public about DRC by producing, creating, and reviewing all informational and marketing materials that are issued on behalf of the Department. It is the goal of the Office of Communications to market the positive components of DRC's multi-faceted mission of serving offenders, legislators, community stakeholders, victims, offender family members and other agency partners.

Bureau of Research and Evaluation

The Bureau of Research and Evaluation is organized to provide information to help policy makers, within and outside the Department, make better decisions. The Bureau is unique within the Department due to the diverse activities assigned to staff. Some of these are:

- Prepare regular reports about the department and its offenders.
- Provide summary answers to questions about many issues, but especially DRC offenders.
- Produce ten year population projections for DRC's offender populations.
- Estimate the population and cost of legislative proposals.
- Conduct program evaluations of DRC programs, in prison and the community, and help guide programs being developed.
- Conduct more elaborate research studies to assist in policy making and operational improvement.
- Develop and operate information reporting systems about recidivism and other DRC performance measures.

Several staffers in the bureau work to collect more detailed social and criminal history data about DRC offenders. That information, when added to the main inmate database, produces a rich profile useful to address the many questions and policy issues noted above.
